Elocutionary Readings.

S. S. Hamill, A.M., author of the "Science of Elocution," is now at Denver, and has been there for the last six weeks, giving public readings and teaching classes in elocution. As well as any other man in the nation is Mr. Hamill known as an elocutionist, in which branch he has taught for twenty years past and his experience has been shown in the publication of the finest elocutionary text book now out, and one which is employed in the schools of this city. In the course of a couple of weeks he will come this way, and it is not probable that he may be induced to give one or two readings here, in which event a rare treat is in store for our citizens.

Moody and Sankey.

Moody and Sankey occurred the greater part of Friday in looking about the city, visiting the Tabernacle, Temple and other places. In the afternoon, at 4 o'clock, a Bible meeting was held in the Presbyterian Church, when the building was nearly filled. In the evening, at 7:30 o'clock, a meeting was held in the Methodist Church, which was crowded to overflowing. The services were of a thrilling character to those held on a similar evening.

Meetings will be held at the same places at 4 o'clock this afternoon and at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The subject of the discourses are not known, as it depends on the character of the audience as to what Mr. Moody's subject will be.

A $1400 VICTIM.

The Hard Cases Play at the Confidence Game.

And Secure Good Checks for $1400.

Another Robbery in the Fifth Ward.

Not only are the hard cases now here indulging in the pickpocket and burglary business, but are also in the confidence line. A few days ago a wealthy individual, who for short will be called T., came down from the north. He was met one afternoon this week by a young fellow who recognized him and called him by name. T. did not know the young fellow, but was informed that he was the son of a judge in the north, and was so familiar that T. recognized him, as he thought, the son of his friend, the judge. The young man showed T. about the city, and when passing a house some distance below the City Hall, the young man said he had gone into the house, and asked T. to accompany him. The latter declined, but finally yielded. When in the room the young man asked began gambling with some persons there. After a time he turned to T. and asked him to lend him $500. T. assented, and wrote out a check for the amount. This was followed by others, until checks for $1400 had been loaned to the son of his friend, the judge. The young fellow, in the first place, told T. that he had $1800 in the safe at the Continental Hotel, and that they would walk over there and get it after they left the house. When they got out, the young fellow told T. that the money was his wife's and that he did not want to get it then as she might suspect, but he would bring it around at 5 o'clock in the evening to the Walker House. T. left about 5 o'clock he received a note in which he was informed that important business kept his young friend away, but that the money would be forthcoming at 10 o'clock on the following morning. T. for the first time began to suspect, and doubted whether he did recognize in his young friend the son of the judge.

In the meantime a certain auctioneer of this city called on the banker on whom T. had drawn his checks, and asked if the $600 check was good. The banker asked how the auctioneer got it, when the auctioneer replied he had received it in a box in the west minute. The banker stated that Mr. T.'s check was good for a great deal more than $600, but that he knew nothing of the check in question. The auctioneer left. This was the first time that the young fellow, a little before the bank opened, the auctioneer was there waiting to cash his check. But T. whose suspicions had been aroused by the banker's remark, connected with the check, and said he did not want them honored. So the banker went out and told the auctioneer that Mr. T. had requested that the $600 be not honored. The auctioneer said he had advanced $350 on the strength of the check, and wanted to know what he should do. The banker told him he did not know and the auctioneer left. T. asked his money, but under the circumstances no man would have sympathized with him had he lost every cent of it. Where such occurrences are so common a man living in the west minute deserves to lose when he allows himself to be so easily gulled. He refuses to make a complaint and consequently no prosecution can be instituted. This may prove a warning to other greenhorns, and if any one else should be caught, it is to be hoped he will have grit enough in him to make complaint and do the public a service by prosecuting the sharp and even though it may put him in a disagreeable light.

On Thursday night another robbery was perpetrated in the Fifth Ward, just one block from the residence of Mr. C. T. Marsden, burglarized on Wednesday night. This time a set of harness was carried from the premises of Mr. Marsden. No clue.

Believe and Successful Operation.

Something over four weeks ago a little three and a half year old son of Mr. George Hedger ran a piece of dried sunflower stalk into his right eye, or rather between the eye-ball and lid, ranging upward close on an inch. All that could be pulled out at once, and local physicians called in. They prescribed and said that nothing further remained in the eye. Since the occurrence, however, the boy has scarcely been able to see. The eye is now in the hands of a specialist, and it is hoped that the operation will be successful.

ARIZONA.

The Mormon Settlers at Bush Valley.

BUSH VALLEY, APACHE CO., September 30th, 1880.

Editors Herald:

I am now in this valley, where I hope to abide until duty calls me elsewhere. We were greatly surprised on the evening of the 22nd inst., by the arrival of Apostle E. Snow and party in our fort. The only disappointment we experienced on their visit was that they were short of time. They left here the next morning. Mr. Wm. Maxwell and myself accompanied them to attend the Snowflake conference. They organized a high council, and appointed bishops in the various settlements, which was very gratifying to the saints in this state of Zion.

Immediately after the close of the conference on Sunday, the 26th, they started on their return trip. All enjoyed their visit and the conference very much, but felt sorry that they could not remain with us a month, at least.

We are occupying an outpost, and the late raid of Victorio's band, and the possibility of other raids upon us, make it necessary for us to fortify. There are twelve families here now, and we expect many more within two or three weeks. Milk, butter and cheese are abundant here, while there are turkeys, deer, elk and the bear in the forest surrounding us. Our pasture is unlimited, more than forty families need not call. We are taking measures to secure a precinct and school district, and hope soon to be self-sustaining. Our nearest postoffice is twenty-five miles, Springfield.

Runaway.

A genuine runaway took place on Friday afternoon. A light wagon with one horse was standing in front of Dwyer's store when the horse became frightened, made a break, tipped the wagon over, throwing the driver out and onto the ground and onto a boy who was in the wagon at the time. With the four wheels the horse flew up the street, but did not go more than a few rods when the hind wheels were knocked off. The horse continued on the dead run up Main street and through the south gate of the Hibernia office yard up to the end where it stopped. The boy who was thrown out and under the wagon box, had his face and nose badly bruised, and as soon as released, washed his face and remarked that he hoped no one else was hurt. On the way up the street the four wheels of the wagon struck a little cart wagon, in which was an unfortunate boy, knocked him out, broke the wheel of the little wagon and named the cart. Several ladies were compelled to run for their lives and quite a number of persons were in imminent danger of being hurt. When it passed into the Hibernia yard and ran up the narrow way between the buildings and the wall, which is not any too wide for a single wagon, three or four teams were standing there, and it was almost impossible to get the horse out of the run, with its four wheels, passed along and did not touch these teams. It was one of the most exciting, dangerous, and yet harmless runaways that has taken place in a long time.

A Word to the F. &amp; G. Protective Society.

LOGAN, October 21, 1880.

c23

Editors Herald:

As the Fish and Game Protective Society is doing good work in trying to prevent the wanton destruction of game, we desire to call their attention to this region. There are several mills in Logan Canyon, the dust from which is allowed to run into the branches and main river, and at one mill a dam has been made across the stream that leaves no chance for fish to go above. We believe a great deal of the spawning is done in the small streams of the South Fork, and if the fish are not able to get up there, a rapid decrease in the supply will result.

The owners of all the above mills know they are violating the game law, but as no officer has ever arrested any of them, they think a continuation in this destructive course will pass unnoticed. If the local officers of the society do not take action where necessary, some member from Salt Lake should take time to investigate.

There will be a rich gain if he succeed in remedying existing evils.

THE SUNNY SOUTH.

Some Wind Which Raises Things—Matters Generally.

SILVER REEF, Oct. 17, 1880.

Editors Herald:

On the evening of Thursday last, the wind raised, with sky cloudless, and so continued blowing the heaviest gale I have ever experienced here. A good sized dwelling, belonging to Dr. S. G. Higgins, of George, occupied as a residence by Mrs. Adolph, was blown away and crushed, the lady escaping with slight injury; also the dwelling of Mr. Schwartz was shattered and the roof carried to some distance, where it was blown to the side, no one being injured. The population of the town was generally up all night, ready for a fire alarm, which once was given when flames arose from a stovepipe of one of the houses. For the past ten days there has been snow, more or less, upon the neighboring mountains, and the wind has been cold, with frost at night and rain enough to give the soil a good soaking. The crops, the sandy roads, but too late for crops, unless turnips and root crops.

The wine crop will be unusually large this year—probably double that of last year—in fact this has been a "great year," the best in eight years. Wine-making is now progressing as fast as the weather will permit, and barrels and storage are in demand and stock is short.

There is little of interest here, strange or new. Mr. Harrison is greatly improving his place by adding thereto and finishing up for a first class hotel, including modern improvements and every convenience and change for the comfort and pleasure of his guests. The public will soon be opened for public patronage and will be a favorite resort.

And mining matters move steadily about as usual. There is quite a movement towards Arizona, and there are numbers of strange faces here. Trade is slightly improved, and will continue better as the weather becomes greater.

The markets remain very quiet. Flour $4 @ $6, hay $18 @ $22, corn 40c @ 50c, oats 25c @ 35c, butter 40c @ 50c, eggs 25c @ 35c, 1 lb. beans @ 25c @ 35c, onions 4c @ 5c, cabbage 20c @ 30c, turnips 3c @ 5c, grapes 5c.

The lynching of Forest creates no excitement here, and in fact the public's universal verdict is "serried him right," and everybody seems more pleased than otherwise.

Yours, J.

The Electric Light in Cleveland.

The posts and instruments for the four additional electric lights ordered for Superior street are in position, and by to-morrow night the wire connections will be made and they will be lighted for the first time. The lights will be at an elevation of thirty feet from the sidewalk, and the effect will be striking. Going west from the Park the first post is at the corner of Seneca street, the second at the northeast corner of Bank, the third just west of the American House on the south side of Superior, and the fourth at the southwest corner of the same.

The Brush Electric Company's new lighting station in the rear of their old works at the corner of St. Clair and Ontario streets will soon be completed, when they will be able to run some 200 lights. These are to be sold or rented to business men and dwellings, as gas is now furnished. Already the company have had applications for about half the number they expect to be able to furnish.

The company have an order from the city of Akron for one of the largest machines. The purpose is to put up an iron mast 200 feet in height, with a guy wire at the top, while four others will be placed on the top of Bachel College building, which
